COMMITTEE REPORT FOR 2024 AGM BY PETER SOUTHWELL, CHAIRPERSON

Our 2023 AGM was held on 21st February followed by an interesting talk by Patrick Yarnold on Whitaker Wright – the Witley Fraudster. Whitaker built the staggeringly ambitious, wildly over the top mansion of Witley Park, and was a fabulously rich investor who made his money in mining. His whole life collapsed when his stock market shenanigans came to light and his life ended in spectacular disgrace and suicide.

In March Peter Reece spoke on Samuel Cody – the Flying Cowboy. Cody was a brave and resourceful man who built his own aeroplanes and became the first man to fly in Britain, despite having no apparent technical education.

In April Alan Norris gave an interesting talk on Swedish Railways when our arranged speaker withdrew on the day due to ill health.

In May Martin Ellis of the National Trust spoke on Clandon Park – the Fire and Restoration. A devastating fire in 2015 revealed the construction of this Georgian mansion which was built for the Onslow family in the 1730s.

In September Jo Gosney gave a talk on Farnborough Abbey and the Empress Eugenie. Eugenie was the widow of Napoleon III who was exiled to Britain following the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. Napoleon III, Eugenie and their son lie in the Abbey crypt.

In October Len Huff talked on the ED Abbotts of Farnham, a coach and car building business which made car bodies for a range of iconic cars from the 1930s to the 1970s.

In November Nick Bale, Guildford Town Guide spoke on Tunsgate – a Century of Change, describing the changes to this historic area of the High Street over the last century.

Our December meeting was intended to be a “from our archives” film show presented by Historians Committee members but this was cancelled because of ill health. Alan Norris stepped in again and gave a talk on the history of Woking’s railways.

In December Alan appeared on the BBC TV South news programme in an item about Christmas Pie which was live from the new Normandy Community Shop and Café. He explained the origin of the name of Christmas Pie.

John Squier undertook research on the history of the Red Route, a 1950s revival of the London to Southampton coaching route which ran through Normandy. This research will be published on the Historian’s website and may form a future presentation.

Throughout the year Ashley Hoare continued his excellent work of managing and maintaining the Normandy Historians website.

Alan Norris is stepping down from the Secretary's role after our 2024 AGM and appeals for new members to join the committee have so far had no effect. A programme of Open Meetings for 2024 has been arranged. Without new blood on the committee existing committee members regrettably confirm 2024 will be the last year that open meetings are arranged. In future the Historians will exist only to carry out research on the village, to maintain our website and to respond to public enquiries about the history of the village.
